Breezy Paragraphs.

FROM BEATTYVILLE ENTERPRISE.
Adams dropped his jug of molasses when he resigned.

"A bird in hand is worth two in the bush," Adams don't think. Those who favor carpet bag rule will no doubt vote for Adams.

They say no man can be a prophet in his own country. This will probably explain Judge Adams' removal from his native county.

Many attempts have been made to reach the north pole. None have met with more dismal failure than Adams' attempt to be nominated for Circuit Judge.

George Washington may have been the father of his country, but James P. Adams can beat that. He is the father of the Republican party in Breathitt county.

Why prolong Adams' agony with a primary? The result will be the same, primary or convention.

The Warden of the penitentiary has raised no howl on account of the crowds Adams sent to him.

Adams calls attention to his prosecution of Breathitt county assassins. About how many did he convict?

The hitherto impossible feat of a man biting his own nose off was accomplished by Adams when he resigned the office of Commonwealth's Attorney.

Adams' piece in The News says, "The Governor recognizing in Judge Adams a man of marked ability etc." Was it the Governor? The news up here was that it was Dog-tax Cox.

This Judicial District is a battle ground. The death of Judge Riddell created a vacancy in the office of Circuit Judge. The Lieutenant-Governor according to his lights appointed a successor acceptable and agreeable to himself. But there is a difference between appointments and elections. One seeking an appointment may storm the works of the appointing power, but that does not mean that he can run the race before the people. The Republican party has a race this year and next. The Democrats may be credited with vigilance. If we make a mistake they will profit.

Drink Waincott's Pop.

A. M. Back, of Seitz, was here on business Monday.

V. L. Boyd, of Roosevelt, was here on business Monday.

G. B. Taulbee, of Rose Fork, was here on business Saturday.

Z. T. Pence, of Lane, was here Tuesday after grass seed and other merchandise.

Green Haddix has moved into one of A. L. Hagins' houses on east Main street.

James Clemons, of Clemons, who has been sick for several weeks, is able to be out again.

H. Gross the produce man, of Athol, was here Monday interviewing our merchants.

E. W. Combs and J. M. Allen, of Clay Hole, were here the first of the week after a boat load of goods for Mr. Allen's store.

John M. Snowden resigned his position with the Ohio Valley Tie Company to superintend the work on his farm near the mouth of Quicksand.

Benton Blanton, who has been off on a four months furlough and visiting his home folks here, left Tuesday to join his company in the U. S. army in Idaho.

Wm. L. Hurst, Jr., and daughter, Miss Lula, of Malaga, were guests of Dr. C. H. Hurst and other relatives in Jackson from Saturday until Monday.

S. W. Cecil, president of the First National Bank, of West Liberty, accompanied by Mrs. M. T. Womack and Mrs. C. W. Womack and son, Master Roger Clay, stopped on their return from Cincinnati last week and the ladies were the guests of Mrs. W. W. McGuire.

Hiram Centers Injured.

Hiram Centers, while at work repairing the foundation of what is known as the Red House, was badly crushed by part of the foundation falling on him. It is thought he has a fair chance of recovery.

Rev. Geo. O. Barnes Dead

The Rev. George O. Barnes, the famous "mountain evangelist" of Kentucky, died on Sanibel Island, off the coast of Florida, where he has lived in retirement for several years. He became widely known as an evangelist in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, and afterward made a tour of the world. Revival meetings conducted by him were attended by great crowds, and thousands were led by him to profess Christianity.

Jett's Creek.

(Delayed last week.)

Wilse Neely, of Cannel City, visited his father-in-law at this place from Saturday till Monday.

Elisha Johnson and Julius McIntosh, who have been attending school at Berea for the past six months, have returned home. Miss Lillie Terry, of Turkey, visited Mrs. Luther Little Saturday.

The farmers of this vicinity have quit logging and gone to plowing. Mrs. Rachel McIntosh visited Mrs. Vicy McIntosh Sunday. Mrs. Julia Ann Jett, of Cow Creek, was here on business the first of the week. Henry McIntosh sold 1,000 ties to Charles Warner and has 3,000 more for sale. Willie Miller and Augustus Thye visited home folks at St. Helens Sunday. Henry McIntosh has sweet potato plants for sale. The K. P. Lumber Co. have their narrow gauge road on Jett's Creek. John Little and wife visited Henry McIntosh and family the first of the week. Coon Johnson has built a freight boat 48 feet long and is now ready to haul freight. Elisha Johnson is building a new house on his farm at the mouth of Jett's creek.

Julius McIntosh attended the social at Luther Little's Saturday night. Elisha Johnson, Jr., and Julius McIntosh were at Cope Branch Sunday. Two young maidens of that neighborhood is said to be the attraction.

SNOWBALL.

FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

Oscar Terry and Willie Allen have returned home from a trip down the river. Henry McIntosh made a business trip to Athol Tuesday. Wise and Abraham Johnson are hauling ties to the mouth of Jett's creek. Andy Roberts, of Turkey creek had his house destroyed by fire and lost $200 in cash. Miss Francis Wise visited Mrs. Ance McIntosh the first of the week. Misses Lizzie and Prada Allen visited Misses Ellen and Frances Wise Saturday evening. Green B. Woods made a business trip to Jett's Creek Saturday. Among those who visited Misses Isabel and Prada Allen Sunday were Misses Prada Back, Ellen and Frances Wise, Anderson Spicer, Willie Johnson and Lee Keen. Coon Johnson is building a new house at the mouth of Jett's creek.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Landrum, of Lost Creek, were visiting friends here the first of the week.

Rev. A. S. Petrey, editor of the Hazard Mountain Evangelist, preached an interesting sermon at the Baptist church Sunday, which was listened to attentively by the congregation. Rev. Petrey is pastor of two churches in Perry county and is doing missionary work in religious circles such as in Kentucky, both in the north and with his paper.

Printed By Request.

Mix the following by shaking well in a bottle, and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. A local druggist is the authority that these simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at nominal cost from our home druggists.

The mixture is said to cleanse and strengthen the clogged and inactive kidneys, overcoming Backache, Bladder weakness and Urinary trouble of all kinds, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Those who have tried this say it positively overcomes pain in the back, clears the urine of sediment and regulates urination, especially at night, curing even the worst form of bladder weakness.

Every man or woman here who feels that the kidneys are not strong or acting in a healthy manner should mix this prescription at home and give it a trial, as it is said to do wonders for many persons.

The Scranton (Pa.) Times was first to print his remarkable prescription, in October, of 1906, since when all the leading newspapers of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other cities have made many announcements of it to their readers.

PREMIUM DEPARTMENT

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO CO., St. Louis, Mo.

Crockettsville

M. J. Reynolds was at J. B. Lewis' Saturday in the interest of photography. He is doing good work and is worthy of the patronage of the people. Walter Deaton is delivering 600 railroad ties to the mouth of Long's creek to await a buyer. Chris Frick and his crew have gone to Napier, Perry county, to brand 1,200 trees bought by the square timber firm now in camp on Squabble creek.

Mrs. Armilda Sawyers, of the Freeman fork of Long's creek, is very low with lung trouble and her recovery is doubtful. Benton Deaton, of Miller branch, was at Joseph Johnson's Saturday on business for his brother. Born, to the wife of James Cornett, last week, twin boys. James is a hustler and if such blessings are to be continued he may expect to have to hustle. A miracle has occurred on Long's creek lately in the conversion of Rhodes Hall from drunkenness and gambling, but the conversion did not reach far enough. If the angel had said thou shalt not carry nor use carnal weapons, but use only the sword of the spirit, it might have been better.

Clemons.

The recent tide washed away considerable fencing in this neighborhood. S. M. Noble and others drove out about 5,000 logs on the tide out of the South Fork. J. E. Lang passed here Monday for Jackson and stated that he had about 100,000 staves in Quicksand that he bought on the Laurel Fork of Quicksand. Charley Miller and Martha Fugate were united in the holy bonds of wedlock Monday by Rev. Henry C. Clemons, who officiated in his usual happy style. H. C. Clemons has a history that relates of the tallest man in the world—John Hale, of Lancashire, England, who was nine feet and six inches high and his hands were 17 inches long and 8½ inches broad. WILD ROSE.

Rousseau.

John Craft has a bad case of pneumonia fever. Andy McIntosh is improving and it is thought that he will get well. People are busy putting back their fence that the big tide washed away. Dan McIntosh and others will hold services at Squire G. P. Back's the first Sunday in May. Everybody invited. The Odd Fellows are preparing to build a hall at G. P. Back's on Meat Scaffold.

Sunday, April 19, is Easter.

Sentence Remitted.

Acting Governor Cox has remitted the jail sentence of two years given Felix Feltner in the Clark circuit court more than two years ago. The remission was recommended by the officials of Clark county, including Judge Benton, as Feltner had already sold his farm to pay the fine of $3,000 which was assessed against him at the time the jail sentence was given him.

Feltner was fined for contempt of court in assisting in smuggling his cousin, Mose Feltner, and other witnesses away from the trial in the damage case of Mrs. Marcum against the Hargises, and B. F. French was fined at the same time $5,000 for the same offense. Feltner has been in Oklahoma pending a decision of his case in the Court of Appeals and is reported to be in very bad health. French also made an application several weeks ago to have the State's part of his fine remitted, but his petition was turned down by Governor Willson.

Herald.

Mrs. B. H. Herald was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. W. D. Cundiff, of War creek, the first of the week. Richard Jett and wife were at Herald Monday. Wm. N. Terry, of Turkey, was at Herald the first of the week. James Johnson and Alex Herald were at Oakdale the first of the week. Harlin Griffith was the guest of her parents, B. H. Herald and wife Sunday. Richard Herald was at Oakdale Sunday. Misses Alice and America Short, of Turkey, were visiting friends at Ponceon Friday till Sunday. On the third Sunday in April at 3 o'clock, there will be preaching at Henry Gabbard's, on Ponceon Camp. Everybody is invited to come.

PERRY COUNTY.

Buckhorn.

(Delayed last week.)

Miss Sarah Couch visited Misses Martha and Mary McIntosh, Saturday. Clifton Gross is on the sick list. James Gabbard visited Miss Lizzie Evans Saturday and Sunday. Miss Lillie Callahan is visiting friends at Jackson. Luther Deaton is assisting in the normal at this place. There are several boys and girls from Breathitt county attending the normal here. We would be pleased to hear from "The Dreamer" again. Prof. Harris' wife will leave in a few days for her home in the Blue Grass. SNOW FLAKE.

JOHN W. LANGLEY

as a candidate for Congress for the Tenth Kentucky District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

I take this means of announcing myself as a candidate for County Court Clerk of Breathitt County, subject to the action of the Democratic party. If elected I shall, regardless of party affiliations, be your most obedient servant.

ALFRED RUSSELL.

To the Voters of Breathitt Co.: I am a candidate for the office of County Court Clerk, to be voted for at the November election, 1909.

GEO. W. NOBLE.

ESTILL COUNTY.

Irvine.

John Noland, who is in school at Winchester, came home last week to visit his parents. We are sorry to know that Mrs. David Powell is very sick. We hope she will soon be out again. We had the largest tide in the Kentucky river we have had for several years past. I guess everybody that had timber in the mountains had a chance to get their timber to market. J. N. Snowden is on the sick list and has been for the past month. We have the finest prospect for fruit in this section we have had for several years past. I thought it would get killed on the night of April 2, but the wind kept the frost off. We learn James Maupin is going to move to Irvine in a short time with his grist mill where he expects to furnish the people their bread stuff at a reasonable price. Judge O. K. Noland has been on the sick list for the past week. We hear that Garnett Powell, who went to Cincinnati to study telegraphy, has left school on account of small pox. He will return home just as soon as the time passes for him to take the small pox. Mr. Editor please give me space in your paper to congratulate John W. Langley for what he has done for the people of this congressional district, for the old soldier, especially, who left his home with gun on his shoulder and knapsack on his back to defend his country, that it should not be divided, and that we should be one grand, great and noble nation. May God bless

ART-SYSTEM SUITS FOR YOUNG MEN

Just the kind of Suits that appeal most to the up-to-date young man. Suits full of life, character and individuality—in indexing precisely all the ultra fashionable models of the best custom tailors; real works of art from the tailor's standpoint; the coats cut in the pronounced long dip-front, two and three button styles, slashed or button-through pockets, new ideas in lapel and cuff treatments; shades of every hue that's popular; browns galore, blues and grays; the snappiest novelty patterns of the looms. To the young man seeking a grand combination of style, quality and good value we unhesitatingly commend our "Art System" Suits as best made in the world at the price.

them with plenty in this life and give them a better home after death. John W. Langley is always ready to respond to their call and it is just and right he should be. I want John W. to go to the next congress, for I have the faith in him to do what he promises. If he was billed to make a speech at Irvine and the train was wrecked 20 miles away with no other conveyance at hand, he would walk to fill the appointment. Judge W. H. Lilly, who has been in Florida for his health for the past winter, has returned to his home at Irvine where he will remain with his family. We are glad to see him looking so well.

Wilhurst.

Our farmers are somewhat damaged by the washing rains that have fallen recently. George S. Terrill, one of our leading merchants, has just supplied his house with a new and up-to-date line of spring merchandise. Florence Hollon, daughter of John Hollon, who has been very low with pneumonia, is improving. Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Flinchum, of Morg, visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Terrill, here last week. Rev. James A. Sewell came up from Tyrone Thursday to visit his home here, but will return soon. Miss Lillian Graham, who recently returned from the Hazel Green Academy, left Monday to attend Campton Academy. Taylor P. Sewell, assistant postmaster of Campton, has tired of "city life and come back home to spend a few weeks in the country. George King, of Calla, visited his home here Sunday. John N. Hurst, of Pear Tree, passed through here Saturday on his way to Oakdale where he has position as storekeeper at the Jett-Spencer distillery. Rev. Henry Taylor, of Stillwater, held Christian services at the Baile Field school house, near here, Saturday and Sunday. Bro. Taylor has been preaching to the mountain people for about forty years and we are always glad to have him with us.

WOLFE COUNTY.

Campton.

Fiscal court was in session Tuesday and will likely last for two or three days. S. S. Combs, of Richmond, came up on business Monday. Work on the new Miller and Childers store buildings on corner of Main and Washington is nearing completion. The work is in charge of A. P. Dye, of Hazel Green. Hon. Z. T. Hurst, of Boxer, and A. H. Patton, of Jackson, both aspirants for Republican nomination for Commonwealth's Attorney were in town Monday. Sam Kash, C. S. Sample, E. F. Cecil, H. H. Swango and G. W. Wheeler, of Hazel Green and vicinity, were in town Monday attending county court. The students of K. W. A. are beginning their rehearsals preparatory to being ready for commencement week, which will be the first week in May. Supt. W. H. Chambers on Monday entered an order fixing the boundaries of a new school district at Oklahoma. Jno. W. Taulbee, of Daysboro, and J. C. Lindon, of Gilmore, were both in town Monday shaking hands with their constituents. D. B. Tyra, of Stillwater, was attending court here Monday and incidentally taking orders for moving machines, rakes &c. On the Seminary Fork of Stillwater, Monday, Floyd Burnett, aged about 16 years, shot and instantly killed Harrison Moore, aged about 15 years. Burnett claimed the shooting was accidental, and that the gun was discharged by Moore in an effort on the part of Moore to wrest the gun from Burnett to shoot some birds. The examining trial will be held before County Judge Centers Tuesday and in the meantime Burnett is in jail. There was only one eye-witness, it seems, who is a very small boy, and it is not known what he will state. George Johnson, attorney of Neola, also John Tester, attorney of Stillwater, were among the visiting attorneys at county court here Monday.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Breathitt Circuit Court.
James S. Cope, &c., Plaintiff.
vs.
Notice of Sale.
C. L. Terrill, Defendant.
Under and by virtue of a judgment of the Breathitt Circuit Court, entered at the February term, 1908, in the above styled action, the undersigned, Master Commissioner, will sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder at the front door of the Court House, in Jackson, Ky., between the hours of one and two o'clock p. m., on Monday, April 27, 1908.

Spring Fashion Exhibit

We are pleased to announce that we have received, a large shipment of spring and summer millinery, a large assortment of this season's styles. We have a wealth of beautiful trimmed hats, both for street and dress, together with a superb exhibition of the capabilities of our own designer. A special invitation is extended to all to visit our millinery department.

SPRING DRESS GOODS

We want the dress goods trade of every woman in Breathitt and the surrounding country and we are doing all we can to get it. We are showing new goods, new weaves and new colors in dependable merchandise for home sewing. In this department we are showing some beautiful wool and silk dress fabrics. Here also will be found every necessity needed in a woman's outfit.

OUR SPRING SHOE TRADE

Is now in full blast. Not in the recollection of the oldest inhabitant did any merchant in Jackson carry the up-to-date styles and qualities you will find in our shoe department representing all the present day fashionable leathers. Every pair a creation in the shoemaker's art; tan, brown, patent, dull and kid leathers.

MENS' CLOTHING

As for our spring and summer line of Clothing, Furnishings and Hats for Men, Boys, and Children, "WELL," you will make a mistake if you fail to look through our stock before you buy your spring outfit. We invite your inspection of them. They consist of the latest novelties, both in material and fashion. Ask to see our line of soft and stiff hats, which includes the well-known Stetson brands. Come to us for your straw and Panama hats and lightweight underwear and other furnishings.

We are headquarters for Groceries, Drugs, Paints and Oils, Hardware, Stoves, Tinware, all kinds of Farming Implements, Pocket and Table Cutlery and every thing you need.

We carry the largest line of Iron Beds in Eastern Kentucky. Call for catalogue.

SEE PROF. WALTZ To-Night, Saturday Afternoon and Night

AT THE SKATING RINK

Prof. Waltz gave an exhibition of fancy and trick skating at the rink last night to a packed house. His performance was the best that has ever been given by any exhibition skater in Jackson or elsewhere. He is a theater, show and circus combined, and it is worth double the price of the admission to see him perform. He is a wonder and holds his audiences spell-bound.

Canoe City will be at the rink tonight, as the O. & K. railway will run a special train, bringing one of the largest crowds that has come up from points on that road. A Beattyville crowd will come Saturday night. Let's all turn out and welcome the visitors.

A Tale of the Cape Cod Fisher Folk

By Joseph C. Lincoln

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Mr. Solomon Pratt began a conical narrative of story, introducing well-to-do Nathan Scatter of his town, and Edward Van Brunt and Martin Hartley, two of the best fishermen in the town. Because of latter pair's lavish expenditure of money, Pratt's first impression was connected with luxury.

CHAPTER II.—The arrival of James Hopper, Van Brunt's valet, gave Pratt the desired information about the New Yorkers. They wished to live what they termed "The Natural Life." Van Brunt, it was learned, was a New Yorker, and for the hand of Miss Agnes Page, who gave Hartley up.

CHAPTER III.—Sol Pratt was engaged as cook and the party decided to spend July Fourth in Beavertown.

CHAPTER IV.—The Pig Race.

I don't callate that I ever had a better run down than I have had that morning. 'Twas a fair wind, and a smooth sea, not the sick, greasy kind, but with little blue waves chasing each other and going "Spit! spat!" under the Dora Bassett's quarter as she danced over 'em. And that's just what she did—dance. There wa'n't any hog-wallowing for her; she just picked up her skirts, so to speak, and tripped along—towing the little landing skiff astern of her—like a 16-year-old girl going to a surprise party. An early July morning on the bay down our way is good enough for yours truly, Solomon Pratt. Take it with the wind and water like I've said; with the salt smell from the marshes drifting out from the shore, mixed up with the smell of the pitch-pines on the bluffs, and me in the stern of a good boat with the tiller in my hand and a pipe in my face—well, all right! That's my natural life; and I don't need no book to tell me so, neither.

The Heavens enjoyed it, and they'd ought to. 'Twas clear then, though it got hazy over to the eastward later on. But then, as I say, 'twas clear, and you could see the schooners strung out on the skyline, some full up, with their sails shining white in the sun, and others down under the edge, with only their tops'ls showing. Far off, but dead ahead, just as if somebody had dipped their finger in the bluing bottle and smouched it along the bottom of the sky, was the Wapomoc, and away aft, right over the stern, was the Trumetighthouse, like a white chalk mark on a yellow fence, the fence being the high sand bank behind it.

The Twins laid back and soaked in the scenery. They unbuttoned their jackets and took long breaths. They actually forgot to smoke, which was a sort of miracle, as you might say, and even Hartley, who had been bluer than a spoiled mackerel all the morning, braced up and got real chipper. By and by they remembered that book of theirs and had what you might call a Nature Life drunk. I never see printing that went to a person's head the way that book seemed to go to theirs. I judged 'twas kind of light and gassy reading and naturally riz and filled the empty places same as you'd fill a balloon.

Everybody was happy but Lord James, and I could see that he wa'n't easy in his mind. He set about ambling of the cockpit and hung onto the thwart with both hands, like he was afraid 'twould bust loose and leave him adrift. If the Dora Bassett had struck a derelict or something and gone down sudden I'll bet they'd have dredged up that Hopper valet and the thwart together. And then they'd have had to pry 'em apart. His lordship wa'n't used to water, unless 'twas to mix with something else.

By and by Hartley shaves both hands into his pockets, tucks his hat back and begins to sing. More effects of the Natural Life, I suppose, but 'twas bully good singing. Might have been saying most anything, calling me a short lobster for what I know, 'cause 'twas some foreigner's lingo, but the noise was all right even if I did have to take chances on the words. I callate to know music when I hear it.

"Good!" says Van, when he hums stopped. "Martin, you're better already. I haven't heard you sing for two years or more. The last time was at the Delanceys' at home." Do you remember the dower and my daughter? Heavens! Agnes told the dower that she had never heard anything like it. You and she were together, you know. Give us another verse."

But Martin wouldn't. Shut up like a clam and reached into his pocket for a cigar.

"That was a No. 1, Mr. Hartley," says I. "I wish you could hear Sol Bassett play the fiddle; you'd appreciate it."

Van he roared and even Hartley managed to smile. As for Lord James he looked at me like I'd trod on the queen's corns.

Blessed if I could see what there was funny about it. Sol can play like an Injun. Why, I've seen him bust two strings at a Thanksgiving ball and then play "Mrs. McLeod's Reel"—you know, "Buckskin, nany-goat, brown bread and beans"—on 't'other two, till there wa'n't a still foot in the hall.

We made Eastwick Port about noon and had dinner. I cooked up a kettle of chowder—fetched the claims along with me from home—and 'twould have done you good to see the Heavens lay into it. Lord James he skipped around like a hoppergrass in a hot skillet, fetching glasses and laying out nine or ten different kind of forks and spoons side of each plate, and opening wine bottles, and

I don't know what all. When he have in sight of the wharf that morning he was so hoarse, I asked him what it was.

"Why, the 'amper," says he.

"The which?" says I.

"The lunch 'amper, of course," he says. "The 'amper for the heatables." Well, I wondered then what in the nation was in it, for 'twas heavier than lead. I remember that the hoft of it made me ask him if he fetched along some of the late Hannah Jane's leftover riz biscuits. But now I see why 'twas heavy. There was enough dishes and truck for ten men and the cook in that basket. We had my

"What do they do with that?"

"Concoct," he says. "Not really?"

"Humph!" I says. "You just wait a shake."

There was a little red-headed youngster scooting in and out among the folks' knees and I caught him by the shoulder. "Hi, Andrew Jackson!" says I. "Want some candy?"

He looked up at me as pert and sassy as a blackbird on a scarecrow's shoulder.

"Bet your natural!" says he. I jumped.

"Lord!" says I; "I callate he knows you."

Hartley smiled. "How do they sell that—that Portland cement?" says he. "Give me some," he says, holding a half dollar to the feller behind the oil-cloth counter. The man chiseled off enough for a fair-sized tombstone and handed it out. Hartley passed it to the boy. He bit off a hunk that made him look like he had the mumps all on one side, and commenced to crunch it.

"There!" says I. "That's proof enough, ain't it?"

But he wa'n't satisfied. "Wait a minute," says he. "I want to see what it does to him."

Well, it didn't do nothing, apparently, except to make the little shaver's jaws sound like a rock crusher, so we went on. By and by we come to the fence alongside of the place where they had the races. The sack race was on, half a dozen fellers hopping around tied up in meal bags, and we see that. Then Hartley was for going home again, but I managed to hold him. The greased pig was the next number on the dance order and I wanted to see it.

Philander Phinney, he's chairman of the Eastwick selectmen and pretty nigh half as big as he thinks he is; he stood on tip-toe on the judge's stand and belliered that the greased pig contest was open to boys under 15, and that the one that caught the pig and hung on to it would get five dollars. In less than three shakes of a herriog's hind leg there was boys enough on that field to start a reform school. They ranged all the way from little chaps who ought to have been home cutting their milk teeth to "boys" that had yellow fuzz on their chins and a plug of chewing tobacco in their pants' pocket. They fetched in the pig shut up in a box with laths over the top. He was little and black and all shining with grease. Then they stretched a rope across one end of the race field and lined up the pig-chasers behind it.

"Hello!" says Hartley, "there's our Portland cement youngster. He'll never run with that marble quarry inside of him."

Sure enough, there was the boy that had tackled the candy. I could see his red head blazing like a lightning bug alongside of a six-foot infant with overalls and a promising crop of side whiskers. Next thing I knew the starter—Issachar Tiddit, 'twas—he opens the lid to the pig box and hollers "Go!"

The line dropped. That little lone pig see 20 odd pair of hands shooting towards him, and he fetched a yell like a tugboat whistle and put down the flight, with the whole crew behind him. The crowd got on tip-toe and stretched their necks to see. Every-body hollered and hurrahed and "haw, hawed."

Now I've been calling the place where they had the races and so on a field. Well, 'twasn't really a field, but just part of the course where they had trotting matches on cattle show days. There was a fence on each side of it and across the ends of the section they was using there was ropes stretched. Back of the fences was the crowd on foot, and back of the ropes was more of 'em, but behind these ropes likewise was lots of horses and wagons and carry-alls and such. Every wagon was piled full of people, and amongst 'em I could see the Barry coach, with the four gray stoppers prancing up and down in front of it and old Commodore Barry and his son on the front seat, with the women folks behind.

Well, when that pig started he made a straight course for the lower end of the field, but the sight of the horses and all scared him, I guess, and he jibed and back he come again. Half a dozen of the pig-chasers—them that was nearest to him when he come about—ran into each other and piled up in a heap, squirming like an eel-pot. They got up in a jiffy and started over again, meeting the gang that was coming back on the second lap.

By the time that pig had made three laps round that course he was a candidate for the hogs' lunatic asylum. Twice he'd been grabbed, once by the ears and once by a leg, but his liveliness and the grease had got him clear. About half the boys had given up the job, and was making for harbor behind the fence; covered with sand and grease, they was, and red and ashamed. The crowd was pretty nigh as crazy as the pig, only with joy. Even Hartley was laughing out loud—first time I'd ever heard him.

That little chap with the red hair had been right up with the mourners till the third round; then he was stood on his head in the scuffle and left behind down by the ropes in front of where the Barrys was. The rest of the chasers were scattered around the other end of the field, with the pig doing the grand right and left in and out amongst their legs. One of the boys—that big lanky one whose cheeks needed mowing—made a flying jump and dove head first right on top of the critter's shiny black back. In a shake he was the underpinning, so to speak, of a sort of monument of boys, all fighting like dogs of the woodchuck.

Next thing I knew I was not out from underneath the stand. I'd been freed out of my seat, and I was squealing like a pig. I was running tackle for the Barrys. Down the field straight as a line, one of the chasers was running. That little shaver's head was in the crowd, and he was missing at the pig's side. With a line, he was in the crowd, and he was missing at the pig's side. With a line, he was in the crowd, and he was missing at the pig's side.

"Look out!" yells everybody. "Caroline go!" But that little shaver with said divers, right where the ropes he hoofs was thick. The Barry coach horses—ran up and jumped, and backed. You could hear wheels grinding and metal clanging and women screaming.

It was one of the first over that fence, but quick as I was, that Hartley insidid was quicker. As a general thing he moved like 'twas hardly worth while to drag one foot after the other; but now he flew. I could see his big shoulders shoving folks over like they was ninneps. Under the ropes he went, and in where the tangle was the worst. And then it closed up into a screeching, kicking whirlpool like. Down he went and I lost sight of him.

Everybody on the grounds was crazy, but I callate I was the worst. Bedlamite of the lot, somehow I felt responsible. 'Twas me that told about the Fourth of July doing first and got him over there. 'Twas me that coaxed him into staying for the consarned pig business. And I kind of felt that I was his guardian, as you might say, now that Van Brunt wa'n't along. Yes, and by ginger, I liked him. Course I thought of the poor little boy, too, but I'm free to say 'twas Hartley that I thought of most.

For the dolks of the next two or three minutes you'll have to ask somebody else. As for I remember real well is catching hold of Issachar Tiddit's Sunday cutaway and ripping it from main truck to keelson. You see, Issachar was trying to back out of the tangle and I was diving in. Next thing I'm sure of is hanging onto the bridle of one of the Barry horses and playing snap the whip with my feet, up and down and over and under.

She cleared up some finally and there was a ring of folks jamming and pushing and climbing between wheels and under wagon bodies, and in the middle of the ring was Hartley, kneeling on the ground and looking pretty middling white and sick, with a dripping dot over his eye, and with that little shaver's red head in his lap. And old Dog Bailey was there, but he w or when he come I don't know. Yes, we and the pig was there, too, but the critter was out of commission, being dead, and I was too busy to think where I was.

"How is he, doctor?" asked Hartley, anxious.

The Doc didn't answer for a minute or so; he was bending over the boy, sponging and swabbing like all possessed. Poor little chap; he looked white and pitiful enough, stretched out there amongst the crowd of strangers and not a soul of his own folks around to look out for him. And he was such a gritty little mite. I looked at him; chalk white he was, and still, with his eyes shut and his breath coming kind of short and jerky. And—well, my breath got jerky, too.

"How is he?" says Hartley again.

Just as he said it the boy stirrs and begins to breathe more regular. The doctor seemed to feel better.

"He'll come round all right now," says the Doc. "Twas the kick that knocked him out. The pig cut the worst of it out, and that saved him. There are no bones broken. But he'd have been trampled to death afterwards if it hadn't been for you, sir. Better let me fix up that cut."

But the Twin shook his head kind of impatient. "Tend to the boy," he says. So the doctor went on with his sponging and swabbing and pretty soon the youngster opens his eyes.

"Did I get him?" says he.

"What's that?" asked the Doc, stooping over.

"Did I get the pig? Is the fiver comin' to me?"

Well, you'd ought to have heard the crowd laugh. Somebody sings out, "Three cheers for the kid," and they give 'em with a whoop.

"What's the matter with youse?" says the youngster, setting up and looking around, dizzy like. "Aw, cut it out!" he says, when they begun to holler some more. "Did I get the pig?"

"You bet you did," says the doctor, laughing. "You're a spunky little rooster. Whose boy are you, anyway? Belongs in Eastwick?"

"Naw," says the little feller, like he was plumb disgusted. "N'York."

Hartley smiled. "A brother out-cast," says he, looking up at me.

Major Phinney had been shoving through the crowd and now he was in the front rank, where so they tell me he used to be in war time—after the fighting was over.

"He's one of them Fresh Air boys," says the major, puffing, but pompous. "There's a summer school of 'em been started just outside the town here. Couple of New York women brought the tribe down last week. This one's one."

Little red head turned to Hartley. "Say," he says, "don't you tell her."

"Tell who?" says Hartley.

"The teacher, Miss Agony."

"Miss which?"

And just then here comes Issachar, his cutaway hanging graceful and ornamental from the collar and plotting a mighty, tatty and stylish young woman to the front. She breaks loose from him and runs forward and flops down on her knees.

"Why, Dennis! Why, Dennis!" she says. "How could you run away and behave like this? Are you hurt? Is he—"

She looks up at Hartley as she begins to ask the last question. And he was staring at her as white as a sheet of paper.

"Why, Agnes!" he says. And she went white, too, and then red. "Oh!" says she. And then "Oh!" again.

"Oh, Martin!"

EASTER FLOWERS.

Made From Crape Paper—Pattern For Cutting Petals.

Beautiful Easter lilies made from crape paper may be used in profusion to decorate rooms for the coming holidays, and the expense of this ornamentation will be small if the flowers are constructed at home.

The making of this characteristic bloom, the Easter lily, will not be a difficult task for even a beginner to undertake if the patterns are carefully cut out and if the detailed description is closely followed.

To fashion an Easter lily cut six petals the straight way of white crape paper in the size of the pattern and to the back of each glue a vein of white covered wire extending about an inch below the base of the petals. Stamens are formed of light green tissue rolled almost to a thread and cut four and a half inches long. The pistil is made in the same manner, leaving a ball or head on the top, and should be cut five and a half inches long.

Glue the edges of the petals about halfway up from the base and form around the center (composed of the pistil and stamens), close bottom around a stem previously formed by winding a stiff wire with crape paper until the required size and then finish by winding stem neatly with green paper. Attach the lily with fine wire to a padded stem and wind, inserting seven or eight leaves along the stem at the same time. Open the petals and bend them gracefully outward.

To wind a stem take a strip of green tissue about half an inch wide, wind it on three times around the top of stem close to the base of the flower to prevent petals from slipping downward; then, holding the paper loosely in the fingers of the left hand, with the right fingers twist the stem wire from round, thus wrapping it with the paper. Wind in the leaves about halfway down and secure the end with a little glue or paste.

Don't forget in working the crape paper that there is a right and a wrong side and that the former is always folded in on a roll.

Don't Lose Your Temper.

Don't lose your temper. The moment you lose control of yourself you are at a disadvantage, and you are almost sure to say things that on calm reflection you would give much to have left unsaid.

It is fatally easy to say things in the heat of the moment, but very hard afterward to do away with the bad impression they have made.

If you do lose control of yourself and say too much, take away as much of the sting as you can by a full and generous apology.

Never be ashamed to say you are sorry. Half the sorrow and remorse in the world come from the false pride that cannot bring itself to express sorrow and repentance.

Cleaning Tan Shoes.

Often the binding of one's dress will leave a dirty black mark across the instep of dainty tan boots, and this simply refuses to be cleaned with the ordinary tan polishes. The shoes can be washed, but the rug must be merely dampened and rubbed on naphtha soap or any yellow soap, and all of the leather must be washed off. Rinse the cloth and wipe the shoes and rub dry with an old towel. They will be clean and lustrous. Apply a good tan polish and rub vigorously with a piece of old cotton stocking top. If care is taken not to dampen the shoes too much they can be cleaned and made to look like new, but all parts should be washed or stained with show.

Working Dots.

Just at present satin and eyelet stitch are used most to embroider dots. To become proficient in working these perfectly round a great many must be worked.

They may be done in a frame or they may be done equally well in the hand.

Wasn't Her Fortune.

"Why don't you marry a millionaire, Edith?"

"I'ven't the nerve to try, Edith."

"Different with me?"

"Why?"

"I haven't the face."

Officers Safe.

"Do they have corporal punishment in the army?"

"You bet they don't, and you doesn't punch the lieutenant either. I tell you, them officers has things about their way."

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering.

The Indians on our Western Plains to-day can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffle the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. Bertha Muff, of 515 N.C. St., Louisiana, Mo., writes:

"Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my troubles public.

"For twelve years I had been suffering with the worst forms of female ills. During that time I had eleven different physicians without help. No tongue can tell what I suffered, and at times I could hardly walk. About two years ago I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice. I followed it, and can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice restored health and strength. It is worth mountains of gold to suffering women."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Muff, it will do for other suffering women.

COOKING MADE EASY.

Latest Novelty Is the Alcohol Gas Stove.

FINE FOR SUMMER SERVICE.

The Alcohol is Not Burned Direct, as in the Chafing Dish Lamp, but is Vaporized and Made into Gas—Stove Not Expensive.

A newcomer comparatively for consideration in the preparation of impromptu meals or for regular cooking is the alcohol gas stove. This means the most improved and latest variety of alcohol stove, with denatured alcohol as the fuel.

VERSATILE TO BE USED.

hol as the heat producer, although the ordinary alcohol may be utilized just as well. The use of denatured alcohol for cooking purposes is not general, but its advocates are steadily increasing, and it is predicted that when its adaptability is better known it will rapidly rise in popularity.

The latest stove, as pictured here, manufactures its own gas and burns a blue flame, just like the ordinary gas range burner. It is especially adapted to the use of denatured alcohol, which may be obtained cheaply, making the cost of operation, according to expert estimates, about 2 cents an hour. The alcohol is not burned direct, as in the chafing dish lamp, but is vaporized and made into gas which gives a flame powerful enough for any cooking use.

For summer service there is much to commend such a stove, particularly for impromptu luncheons and outing trips. According to some recent tests, the stove may be run, both burners at full capacity, at a cost of 25 cents per hour. Like a gas stove, one burner may be used independent of the other.
